LOUISIANA HIGH SCHOOL

3321 W. GEORGIA, LOUISIANA, MO.

Enrollment — 392 — Principal — DONALD E. GILTNER

"Somewhere a whistle sounded. 'Here she comes,' someone yelled, and suddenly, there they stood; Rosalyn, Jimmy, and Amy, friendly, lean and sunburned, nodding and smiling. Suddenly I knew why I had come. It wasn't just to see the Carters, lovely and gracious though they were. It was because the President of the United States was there!! This was America and I was part of it! Amber waves of grain waving in the breeze . . . pinnacle peak sunset . . . white church spires rising into the sky of a peaceful little town of friendly people.

The man shaking hands was a symbol of the most powerful, most open, most accessible government that had ever been conceived to date. We were performing a celebration for a concept of government that had worked the miracle of America! Bless the Delta Queen for bringing us Jimmy. His presence among us this day had renewed the image of a people who would strive through the ages, God willing, to maintain a government of the people, by the people and for the people . . ."

On the first day of school, everyone was dismissed to go to the waterfront to witness the arrival of the President. He was on his way down the Mississippi aboard the Delta Queen, meeting the people. Band members waited at the landing along with city dignitaries and the color guard to pay honor to the chief executive. Although his schedule did not allow him to disembark, Louisianians will long remember the thrill of the occasion.

Very Important describes our wonderful advertisers, the programs and activities of our school and, of course, the people who appear within these pages.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Very Important Patrons .....	3-32
Our advertisers, the people and places that give life to our community, have our gratitude for their wonderful support. Students are very important patrons also. Their spending makes a big difference.
Very Important Programs .....	33-52
These formal pictures show the groups whose functions create the excitement of extracurricular life at LHS.
Very Important Performances .....	53-103
When programs go into action anything can happen and very often does. Performances give visible proof of the many talents at LHS.
Very Important People .....	104-147
Best of all are the personalities with their untold variety: the diversity of forms, faces, voices, gifts . . . the innumerable hopes and dreams.

Go Big Red . . . a chant made famous by LHS cheerleaders of the past was carried on by the '79-'80 squads. The squads had their good and bad times as did the volleyball, football, basketball, and track teams. Problems led Sponsor Vicki Love to propose a constitution to govern cheerleaders next year.

Student Council started off the year with a workshop at Riverview Park to discuss goals and activities of the year. As always, they helped with student registration and distribution of books. Homecoming held many responsibilities for the Council. They were in charge of setting up practices, the parade (including acquiring the cars), the ceremony itself, and the dance following the game. Before the Thanksgiving holidays, Student Council held a Turkey-of-the-Month Contest with Mr. Hunter the deserving winner (for the second year!). At Christmas time messages were sent in stockings and a dance was held. Following Christmas, a carnival broke up the winter monotony. On Valentine's Day, Student Council members delivered message carnations. The main project of the year was buying the stage curtains. The purpose of the council is to promote good citizenship; to work toward and keep harmonious student-faculty relations; to make LHS a better school and to maintain good relations with other schools.

Future Scientists of America

Their activities for the year were the Homecoming Spirit Chain, courtwarming yarn, a field trip to a St. Louis Dinner Theater and the initiation of twenty-five new members for the 1980-81 school year.

Student Librarians . . . All Booked Up

Student Librarians gave one hour of service a day to the students by manning the circulation desk and doing some of the routine jobs that go along with it. They are: Rick Newingham, Charlotte Akers, Lisa Hughlett, Miss Jacobia, Chrystal Walker, Leola Beasley, Patti Murry, Diane Travis, Karen Culhane, Connie Woods, Lori Hayden, Chrissy Hart and Joy Weese.

Quill and Scroll

ALAMO Staff

Quill and Scroll (the International Honor Society for High School Journalists), is a society organized to recognize outstanding work in some field of journalism, be it in the work output or in one specific area. Quill and Scroll was first chartered at LHS in 1979. Of the 5 initiates, 2, Kathy Carlton and Patricia Rubemeyer would be returning the next fall.

TOP LEFT: In spring 1980 four more people were initiated into the society. Robin Elliott, Sandy Robbins, Karen Culhane, and Sandra Reid. TOP RIGHT: To help produce this year's Alamo, were a wide variety of people, from hard workers to hard thinkers. Alamo work begins in late summer and continues until 2 or 3 weeks after school is out. To produce the yearbook there must be a few really dedicated people, willing to come in their spare time out of school, as well as in school.

Preparing for the Future

LHS offered many courses to prepare students for an occupation.

JOURNALISM introduced juniors and seniors to effective newspaper writing skills. Students studied journalism and produced Highlights, the school newspaper.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS courses offered a foundation for a job after graduation. These courses included: drafting, metal working, general shop, and industrial crafts.

The AREA VOCATIONAL SCHOOL in Eolia gave opportunities such as refrigeration and air conditioning, child care, welding, building trades, and automobile mechanics.

BUSINESS EDUCATION classes prepared students in office skills in class and sometimes on the job. These business-oriented courses were accounting, shorthand, typing, office practice and secretarial practice.

HOME ECONOMICS classes provided instruction in sewing, cooking, nutrition, consumer education, and cosmetology.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE classes such as animal science, ag. machinery, and ornamental horticulture continued to be popular. By the end of the 1979-80 school year plans were being made for not only an expanded vo-ag program, but a new vo-ag building on the high school campus.

Artists Display Their Talent

Art students displayed their accomplishments at the Fine Arts Evening, May 13. The most outstanding students were honored at Awards Assembly.

Rotary Awards were: Susie Stephens, 1st place; Lisa Bauman, 2nd; Vicki Waltman, 3rd. Scope Club Awards: Susan Patrick, Art 1 and Darren Goodhardt, Art II.

Those artistic enough to have qualified for taking Art III were Paul Carroll, Robin Elliott and Julie Garoutte, all seniors.

A year

Made to remember

The 1979-80 season was highlighted by an 8-2 record and second place in the CCC. The Bulldogs entered the season with a large senior squad and seemed to be unbeatable for the first five games. They beat Bowling Green, Clark County, Palmyra, Mark Twain and Highland. But the Homecoming jinx prevailed, and the Bulldogs suffered their first loss to Macon. Playoff hopes were ruined in a game against Centralia. Louisiana tied with Macon for second place, then went on to defeat Troy 29-6.

HOMECOMING WEEK, '79:

To many, homecoming is the best time of the year. The 1979-80 school year was no exception. Working on floats became a full-time thing, with football players having to leave early (coaches' orders). Sophomores and seniors fought it out for the spirit chain all week, senior pride helping them pull it out on the last day. Seniors had a victory with their all-evening hall decorations effort. Sophomores again were second. Friday's pep assembly was the best ever. The Seniors' winning skit featured "Super Cletus." Sophomores took second again with a mad scientist foreseeing victory for the Bulldogs. A light drizzle stopped in time for the parade. That night's game was disappointing as Macon stomped the previously undefeated Bulldogs. The dance made a great way to end . . . HOMECOMING WEEK, '79.

THE DAY WAS GREAT, BUT

The 'Ever-So-Delightful' Pom-Pon Girls

During football and basketball seasons, these girls exchanged their instruments for pom pons and added a special touch of excitement to marching band. They sacrificed after-school time to practice and choreograph their routines. No halftime show would have been the same without them.

Marching Band and Pep Band Get It On

COUNTERCLOCKWISE: Cristy, after a hard day's work; Kathy Carlton; John Eipper on trombone; halftime jam session; Tuba on Phil Renner; marching band at homecoming.

These "Marching Bulldogs" will be long remembered for their halftime performance at the last home game of the season. Mr. Phil Richardson, substituting for Mr. Christy, masterminded the dazzling display. The band, under full field direction of Kathy Carlton, marched into a cross formation to play a beautiful rendition of "Amazing Grace." Then, with a wild yell, they scrambled into the shape of a train engine and enchanted the crowd with "Wabash Cannonball." It was a night and a season to remember.

"THE MUSIC MAN"

"The Music Man" was different from musicals held in the past. Not only emotional, it had a comical touch to it that created an informal atmosphere, as opposed to previous plays.

The following held major parts:
 Traveling salesman — Wade Carlton, Martin Ohrenberg, Tom Turley, Steve Duckworth, Philip Love, Michael Ellis, Philip Renner, Charlie Cowell — Chuck Graham, Conductor — Terry Cook, Harold Hill — Rusty Willis, Mayor Shinn — Dale Weese, Ewart Dunlop — Judd Martin, Oliver Hix — David Campbell, Jacey Squires — David Swenson, Marcellus Washburn — John Eipper, Tommy Djilas — Tom Turley, Marian Paroo — Kathy Carlton, Mrs. Paroo — Karla Neumann, Amaryliss — Susan Patrick, Eulalie Mackecknie Shinn — Moira Horton, Zaneeta Shinn — Teri Wilhoit, Alma Hix — Pam Gillis, Maud Dunlop — Patty Rubemeyer, Ethel Toffelmier — Jan Greer, Mrs. Squires — Joy Weese, Constable Locke — Wade Carlton, Farmer and Wife — Carolyn Sexton, Brad Gillis.

Directing and producing the play as well as conducting the band was Albert Conrad. Mrs. Sara Jane Branstetter played the piano and helped coach the actors. Robin Claypole was stage manager. Middle School students made up the band and town children. Members of the band, plus adults, made up the orchestra, which had to practice many long hours.

The plot is fairly simple. Swindling salesman, Harold Hill, stops in River City to convince people they need to buy band supplies from him to keep their boys away from corruption. He promises to teach the boys to play through a "think system" he devised. Mayor Shinn doesn't like Hill's plan from the first. Hill's plans backfire when he falls in love with librarian, Marian Paroo. Marian and Marcellus, an old friend of Harold's, try to get everyone to believe in Harold. It works, for a while — that is, until Charlie Cowell (a salesman who knows of Hill's swindling act) tells everyone the truth. Everything turns out fine though as the band "plays" for the town.

minute . . .

The crowd comes alive as the Bulldogs emerge from the locker room. They warm up, take a few shots at the hoop, gather around the bench. The pep band strikes up the national anthem, the ref tosses up the ball, and the game is off.

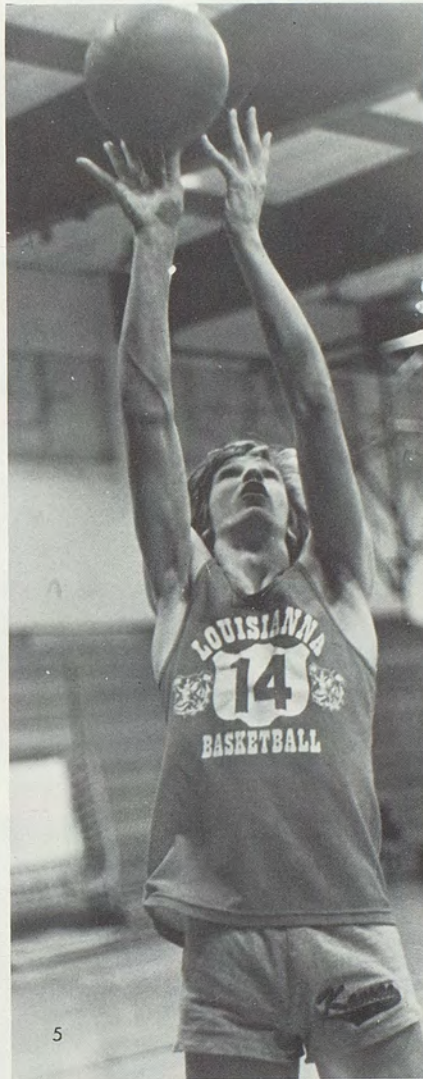

The hours of training and practice now pay off as the Bulldogs run up and down the floor, pounding, sweating, scoring.

by minute . . .

The third quarter is a struggle, the Bulldogs fall behind. At the beginning of the fourth, they begin to close the gap. They take the lead, lose it, take it again. They trade basket for basket, down by one point. Time out is called. Pressure. Sweat. The crowd goes wild. The inbounds pass, the seconds tic away . . .

VICTORY!

Minute by minute, game by game, the Bulldogs played a season to be proud of.

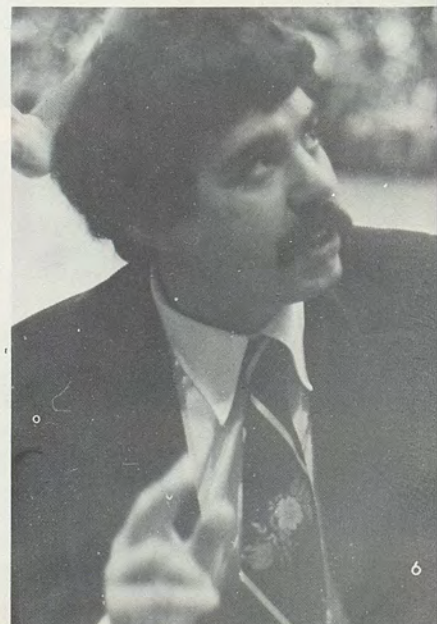

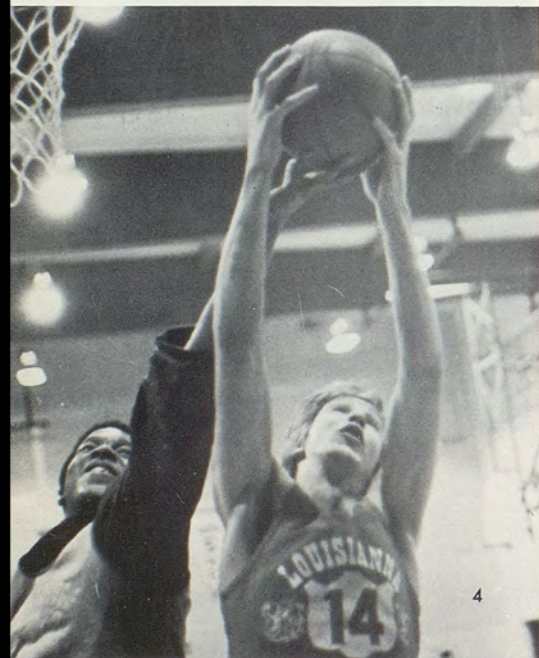

1 — Gary Richardson going in for a layup. 2 — Bill Turner puts it up. 3 — Bill Keith and Billy Sladek in scrimmage. 4 — Kathy Washington builds a screen while Cheryl Chatman eyes the basket. 5 — Steve Cunningham. 6 — Lee Ann Hammet. 7 — Joe Henderson — in warmup. 8 — Basketball is an All-American sport. 9 — Judd Martin.

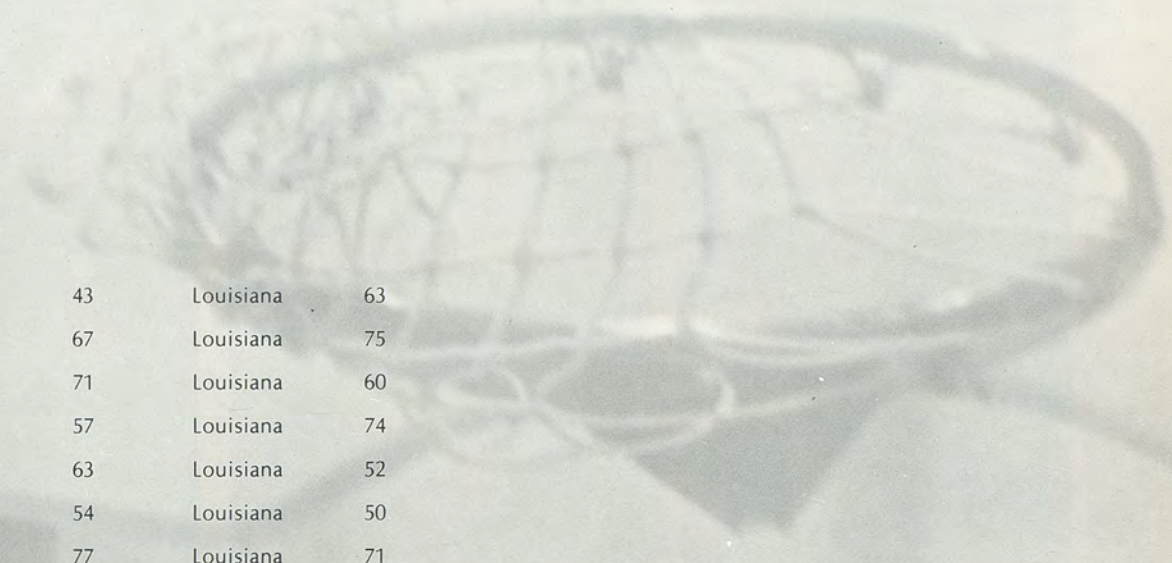

1 — The Bulldogs show off their true nature. 2 and 3 — Gary Richardson and Bill Sladek at the free throw line. 4 — Greg Beasley and Steve Cunningham go for a rebound in scrimmage. 5 — Pam Starman dribbling it down the court. 6 — Coach Blanton gives his men a pep talk.

The Bulldogs worked diligently on their free throw shooting this year, and a highest ever — seventy percent — at the line was the result of their efforts. Coach Blanton boosted his own career total of wins over the century mark, making his record stand at 101 wins and 68 losses.

LHS Does It in the Snow

Christmas always livens up the mid-winter blahs, especially if you are involved with the Vocal Music Department. Much time, work, and many nee-nay-na-no-nu's are spent in preparation for the Christmas Concert. Kirsten Christensen and Billy Bob Martin narrated the Christmas story. The Allied Arts class broke up the winter hum-drum by creating their work of art dubbed "The Snowball Party."

1 — Gary Richardson and Lorie Early. 2 — Kirsten Christiansen and full choir. 3 — Gabi Bai. 4 — Joy Weese, Jamie Howard and Bob Schroeder. 5 — The Allied Arts class. 6 — Jim Young and Patty Rubemeyer. 7 — Bill Minor, Greg Beasley, Joy Weese, Eddie Joe Swarnes, Brad Gillis, Willetta Salmons and Leon Mannahan. 8 — Mr. Griffith. 9 — Full Concert Choir.

Lack of Finances Cut Into Tradition Courtwarming Was On . . .

Courtwarming survived after months of threatened disaster. Traditionally charged with the festivities, the cheerleaders were broke. Their new uniforms had exhausted their funds. Since they could not afford a band, there was no dance. Dances weren't being attended well enough to take a chance on door receipts.

But some innovations marked the week as unique. Chamber choir sang at halftime and a group of ropejumpers amazed the crowd with their syncopation. A Penny Princess was added to the Court, voted on by class donations. The game, a cliff-hanger, ended with Palmyra ahead, 72-70.

For Fun and Profit

The Winter Carnival, sponsored by Student Council, passed its first year with flying colors!!

Each class and several organizations sponsored an event for the carnival.

Do It in the Hay

Sadie Hawkins was revived after a 1 year absence, and held on March 14, sponsored by the Junior Class. On this day the females are allowed to propose marriage to their favorite boy. The gym was suitably decorated for the event with bales and loose hay. Everyone participated in 3-legged and gunnysack races. Then Marryin' Sam (Mr. Blais) pledged each of the couples to matrimony after they had each received their own gold ring and marriage certificate. Melanie Greer and Tad Duckworth were voted Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner.

Freshmen Do It on the Fountain

April fool! The sound of this phrase was heard throughout the school. On this traditional day many people practiced the ancient art of pranks, not exempting teachers. Some artists found many ways to express themselves: the forged love notes, the brewing of some unsavory concoctions, and booby-trapping some select pieces of furniture including chairs, tables, and one certain piano. The freshmen were not exempt from the whimsical mood of their fellow students. Unfortunately, (at least from the freshmen's point of view) the school had an open lunch due to testing. This meant that the freshmen could all be rounded up at once. Many of their kind were seen perching on the fountain and running a hard race around the front lawn. All in all, it was a most enjoyable April Fool's Day.

1 — Janice Clark and Todd Geeson. 2 — Steve Cunningham and David Swenson. 3 — Adrian Berbarri. 4 — Tad Duckworth, Gino Castagna, Mark Silvey and Mr. Klemaier. 5 — Todd Ehinger.

FINE ARTS '80

1980 was the year of the first Annual Fine Arts Evening at LHS. Its purpose was to show the community what the Vocal, Band and Art Departments had been doing all year. The community was pleasantly surprised. The evening included performances from the band, Mixed Choir, Boys' Glee, Girls' Glee, and solos and ensembles, both vocal and instrumental, that had performed for ratings at contest. This year's swing choir made its debut, and a display of art covered an entire wall of the gym.

- 1 — George Travis, Debbie Painter, Scott Goodhart, and Jeff Corbin provide the beat
- 2 — Peanut's character, Linus, in the art display, by Sandy Robbins
- 3 — LHS Concert Choir under the direction of Mr. Albert Conrad
- 4 — Chamber Choir in concert
- 5 — A well-known symbol by Debbie Painter
- 6 — LHS Swing Choir takes a bow
- 7 — That Art Department has been busy!
- 8 — Mr. Christy leads his band through difficult contest numbers
- 9 — Teri Wilhoit and Tom Turley sing to each other and to the audience in Swing Choir

Oldies But Goodies

Mr. Aaron Hemphill has served Louisiana for 26 years, teaching various classes. He began teaching at LHS in 1954. He has taught classes from shop to drivers education. In the years Mr. Hemphill has taught shop he and his classes have built a bulldozer, the sidewalk in front of the high school, benches in the main hall, shelves in every room at high school and Meriwether. He and his classes also designed and built the press box above the concession stand, the inside of the concession stand, and he supervised the building of the fountain and the planter box.

Mr. William Cunningham began teaching at LHS in 1955. He has coached every sport at LHS at one time or another. Mr. Cunningham is the Athletic Director of high school. This year he was head coach of the boys track team. In the past Mr. Cunningham has taught classes such as health and history. He was responsible for the football field and practically built the track by himself. He has been honored throughout the state as an expert in track and is a factor in why sports are so popular in Louisiana.

Getting Down to BASIC

A new course was offered at LHS this year, but you couldn't take it during the day. A computer course (the first of its kind in the area) which taught BASIC computer language and programming, was good for either high school or college credit. The inventors of the course were Jack Bohle and Robert Castiglia. There was much interest shown in the course which is to be continued in the future.

T-shirt Plus

T-shirts say it to a tee. One way people express their very important messages is through t-shirts. The messages express feelings, moods, likes, dislikes, needs, and sometimes what the shirt wearer likes to do or say. T-shirts get the message across.

Contest traditionally meant a Friday out of classes for Vocal Music and Band students, but since LHS moved up in the world to AAA, this year, they had to sacrifice a Saturday, March 27. The day started early for those who performed in the morning. The first bus left at 6:30, and some people performed as soon as they stepped off the bus at Mexico High School. Groups and solos performed all morning, and the band performed just before noon. The three LHS choirs performed in the afternoon.

As students tried to relax in the home room between performances, moods varied. Those who could find a little time could go to the cafeteria for a bite to eat, and check the ratings. Good news poured in. Girls' Glee, which had considered canceling their performance the day before, surprised everyone, including themselves, by achieving a 1 rating to match that of Mixed Choir. Although having moved into AAA (schools of 400 to 1000 students) meant LHS had to compete with schools over twice its size, Mr. Conrad said, "We can Hang!"

LHS did not do as well at state contest, but for the first year as an undersized AAA school, they did themselves proud.

Working Toward Perfection

Hanging in Sin-Im-In City

The drama class had a very busy year. Besides learning techniques of acting and stage craft, they performed several short plays. At Christmas they traveled to Primary School to perform "The Christmas That Almost Wasn't." And then, at the end of the year, high schoolers received a special treat as the drama class gave a spectacular performance of "Hanging in Sin-im-in City" which they had rehearsed for several weeks.

Track — Full of Individuals

When you think of track, you think of hard work, long hours, and endless practicing, and 1980 was no exception. With the change from yards to metric, times seemed to slow, but it was attributed to the change of the length of the track. The boys had a 57% winning record and were 4th at conference. The decathlon winners were: freshman, Randy Love; sophomore, Rudy Bell; junior, Bill Turner; senior, Gary Richardson. School records were broken by two track men; Gary Richardson broke the triple jump record by jumping 42' 2". Bill Keith, who also holds the 2 mile run record, set a new record in the 3200 meter run. His time was 10:36. The girls' year was exceptional. Dennis Griffith took over as coach and showed what he could do, as the girls were contenders for the conference crown. They took fourth, narrowly missing third. They also placed 5th at district out of 14 teams. Most valuable track athletes were Lynette Maxwell and Melanie Green. School records were set in all new metric events. Lynette Maxwell set a new school record in the triple jump, jumping 34' 10½".

The Hurdlers

The job of a hurdler is a tough one. Hurdlers are faced with more pain than you may realize. Bruised knees and ankles, cuts, scrapes, and abrasions are all a part of their tough job.

include long and triple jumpers, pole vaulters and high jumpers.

runners probably put in more time than anyone.
RIGHT: Bill Keith and John Minihan: they will return!

The Sprinters . . .

. . . are those who participate in short distance, aimed at producing as much speed as possible.

TOP RIGHT: Even though the baton had been dropped, Lynette Maxwell finishes first in the 800 m. relay.

When It's Time to Relax . . .

August through May wasn't all schoolwork. After school hours left some time for other interests.

1 — Trent Meyers, often confused with Colonel Sanders. 2 — Purple Rubemeyer and Kathy Carlton getting some sun while working on Alamo after school. 3 — Rick Stephens, not much time to relax pushing a broom at Penneys. 4 — Steve Poyser takes a break at Dairy Queen. 5 — Sunset Park provides a tranquil setting for "kids." 6 — Brad Clark and Augie Myers search for their favorite records. 7 — Jerry Pellikaan spends some time with his black labrador. 8 — Angelos, a favorite eating spot for teens Gabi Bai and Robbie Shoemate. 9 — Rick Penrod, after hours at Maly's Car Wash.

They Climbed the Stairway to Heaven

Heaven was the setting for the Prom and Banquet. Banquet, held at Primary School, was complete with a dinner and angel servers. The band at Prom included Peter Nixon, an LHS alumnus. The Junior Class worked hard on turning the LHS gym into a "Stairway to Heaven." Seniors were pleased with the work done in honor of them. The Junior class worked together harmoniously to make the Stairway to Heaven a success.

1 — Regina Wilson, Lillian Woods, Valerie Kuntz. 2 — Jennifer Todd and Brett Penrod. 3 — Martin Ohrenburg signs in at banquet while John Eipper as St. Peter look on. 4 — Clay Powell and Lori Jamison. 5 — Melanie Greer. NEXT PAGE: 1 — Brenda Powell with date. 2 — Connie Woods and John Bibb. 3 — Karla Neumann and Bob Schroeder. 4 — Dana Hope, Shelly Capps, and Melinda Wagner. 5 — Adrian Barbari and Mark Silvey.

Anticipation . . .

Graduation . . . a time of relief and regret. Seniors, along with band members and chorus took an afternoon off from studying to practice for Baccalaureate and Commencement. After putting on their caps and gowns the seniors were no longer just "high schoolers," but rather "soon to be graduates," who could no longer laugh at the same jokes, or clown around like juveniles, but instead carry themselves as they should — "young adults."

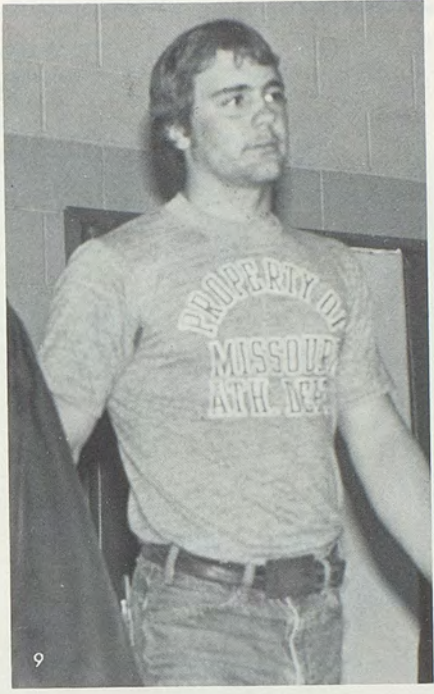

1 — Regina Wilson, Monty Wood, and Lillian Woods. 2 — Sandra Roan and Gary Richardson. 3 — Melanie Greer. 4 — Kate Giltner and Melanie Greene. 5 — Mark Silvey. 6 — Cathy King and Valerie Kuntz. 7 — Bob Schroeder and Karla Neumann. 8 — Todd Geeson. 9 — Jamie Howard. 10 — Moira Horton. 11 — Valerie Kuntz. 12 — Elizabeth Fry, Julie Garoutte, Virginia Garth, Cindy Loesing and Todd Geeson. 13 — Elizabeth Fry. 14 — Kate Giltner, Melanie Greene, Melanie Greer and Johann Hall. 15 — Kathy Robbins

The support staff spent many hours making the school environment a happy place.

Bus drivers (1) are Mr. Ira Reed, Mr. Carl Lindsay, Mr. Glen Trower, Rev. Aubrey Russell, Mr. Newton Smith, Mrs. Margie Griffith, Mr. Charles Peterson, Mrs. LuBelle Kuntz, and Mr. B. E. Backer.

Custodians, who not only maintained the building and grounds but had to deal with vandalism were (2) Mr. Richard Miller and (3) Mr. Art Hampton.

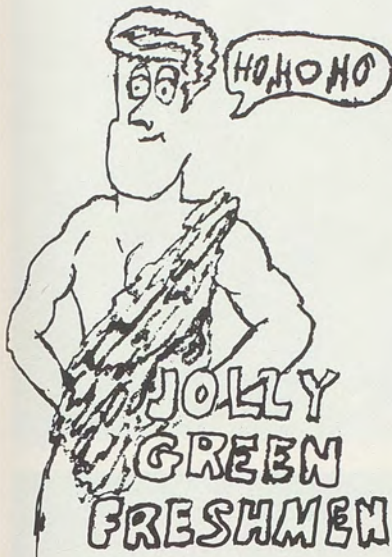

The cooks, who found ways to make nutritious meals economically were (4) Mrs. Jean Stark, Mrs. Irene Miles and Mrs. Nina Lawrence.

Dr. Dallas Albers said of these people, "We have some loyal, competent classified employees without whom this school just could not operate." Dr. Albers was R2 Superintendent from January 1977 through June 1980.

FRESHMEN

Being a freshman is knowing what a penny looks like up close. Of course we were nervous at first, but then we realized things weren't that bad. There were many things we had to get used to: Bells that sounded like fire alarms, bigger kids telling us what to do, and more responsibilities. The float was left up to us to design and build. The boys' football team lost only one game. Four freshman girls played varsity basketball and two freshman boys dressed for varsity basketball. We had many good times and very few bad times. The next three years will be for us to conquer.

The Sophomores started out the year with a semi-bang. They were no longer little green Freshmen, and they seemed to be ready to set the world on fire.

Homecoming came and went, without any great victories, but also without any smashing defeats. It seemed as though the Sophomores were so used to winning the events that the judging just seemed to overlook them.

Tough luck.

But they were learning. The sport of the day was "See who can knock over the most pylons in Driver's Ed.," along with, "Thirty Biology labs to do in one evening, which one do we start with?" They discovered that the upcoming crop of Freshmen didn't get punished and abused half as bad as they did, or so it seemed. They learned all about the worry and hassle involved in doing a term paper. They also learned how to prove corollary 6-19.

Then there were the concession stands, for the girls' basketball games and for the JV and 8th grade football games. They learned how to sign up for donations, how to buy hot dog buns at the last minute, and that the little junior high kids really down a lot of hot dogs.

The Sophomores learned how to spell Ayatollah Khomeini's (Komeni? Kohmenie?) name in world history and/or geography, and they got to look at the inside of a clam (Yes, it's a mollusk).

At the end of the year, the Sophomores were overjoyed. At last, after countless years of waiting, they were upperclassmen!

'80 PROM

Getting ready for prom meant renting a tux for about $40.00 (matching shoes were $6.00 extra) or buying a dress that met your heart's desire. The expenses were enormous for this special event awaited all year. Underclassmen admired fellow classmates who were lucky enough to be asked. Disappointed and dateless upperclassmen ended up asking people from out of town or went by themselves. The juniors had a week to turn the ordinary gym into a heavenly paradise. The week brought the Junior class and their sponsors together as a group for the first time.

The Junior class started off 1979 full of excitement. Starting with Homecoming, the Junior Class put a lot of effort and spirit into their preparations, and their float came in first place. During the football and basketball seasons the Junior class undertook many concession stands. In the Winter Carnival the Juniors had booths for pie throwing and a bean-bag game (this would have gone over well if the student targets hadn't fallen over with the stand.) The Juniors organized Sadie Hawkins, and won the spirit flag on several occasions.

Senior year . . . What a year. The seniors of '80 really went out in style! The 3rd place homecoming float, which everybody "worked" on so hard. Football games — sitting together, cheering the team on. Long winter nights . . . riding up and down Georgia Street, waving and honking.

Courtward game, with Todd and Janice as King and Queen. Loaded cars and buses to basketball games. And then . . . "Senior-itis", which began earlier than usual. Crazy mornings before school, rowdy lunch hours, and wild hours after the 3:09 bell. It wasn't all easy. Those long hours spent on bookkeeping, physics, math IV and English IV. Long, hard tests that were suffered through and best yet . . . the relief when they were over.

And finally the ultimate . . . the long awaited last 2 weeks of school . . . rushing to get fines paid, books found, and cleaning lockers for the last time. Mixed emotions flying . . . sad, happy, relief, regret, exhaustion, excitement . . . feeling so many different ways that no one really knew how they felt . . . until that final moment . . . walking across the stage as Mr. Giltner called your name . . . then ecstasy.

Class Officers: Tad Duckworth, Clay Powell, Kate Giltner, and Rusty Willis.

1980 — Dawning of a Decade

What happened in the community, the nation, and the world during the 1979-80 school year? How did the year affect students at LHS?

The year began with a visit by President Carter. Many students saw him and his family as they passed by the riverfront on the Delta Queen on August 23.

Another VIP, Pope John Paul II, visited Des Moines, Iowa on October 4. For many it was exciting to have an international figure only 200 miles away.

The biggest news was that over fifty Americans were held hostage by militants after they took over the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, Iran, on November 4. Students' reactions ranged from "Blow Iran off the map" to "Use diplomacy and patience." When Ayatollah Khomeini, Iran's leader, appeared on the cover of Time as "Man of the Year," Mr. Dennis Bonifield's history class burned the covers.

Across the nation and in Louisiana, yellow ribbons were tied around trees, to stay there until the hostages were released. The basis for the practice was the song, "Tie A Yellow Ribbon Round the Old Oak Tree." Then, flags across the nation and in front of the high school were flown at half-mast after eight service men were killed in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue the hostages.

In early January, 1980, President Carter announced that the U.S. would boycott the Moscow Summer Olympics after the Soviet Union invaded Afghanistan.

The lack of U.S. military preparedness in the face of this unrest, led the President to suggest that soon all 19-year olds, women included, might have to register. This brought storms of protest that a draft would soon follow. Concern was in evidence around LHS.

At the 1980 Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, New York, Eric Heiden, U.S. speed skater, won five gold medals, an Olympic record. The U.S. hockey team upset Finland and the Soviet Union to win the championship.

This was the year of the "boat people." Cambodians, Vietnamese, Haitians and Cubans fled dictatorial governments and poverty for the U.S. shores.

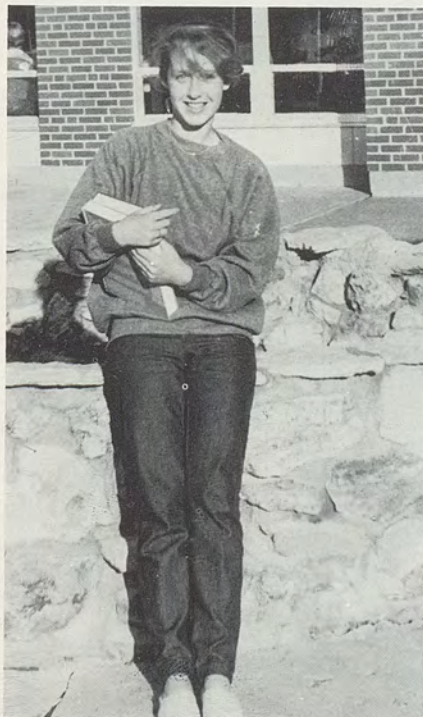

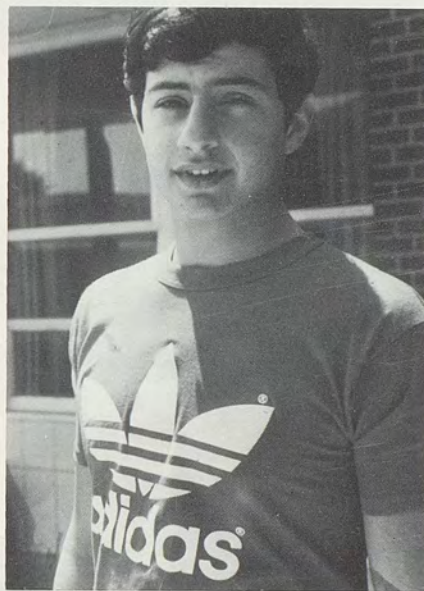

Presidential hopefuls began battling for their parties' nominations. President Jimmy Carter led Sen. Edward Kennedy and Ronald Reagan led George Bush and the Democrats and Republicans raced toward their conventions.

The overwhelming domestic worry was skyrocketing prices. As the Arab nations exercised more control over both the availability and cost of oil, the U.S. was forced to cut back by pricing energy almost out of reach. Gold prices and interest rates reached all-time highs. ( per ounce and and 20%) LHS students felt the pinch when buying jeans, pizza and especially gas. ($1.23 per gallon.) Perhaps that is why "parking" became as popular an amusement as "riding around."

Friends Are Forever

Switzerland and Argentina were two countries that didn't particularly interest anyone until this year at LHS.

Gabriela Bai, from Switzerland, better known as "Gabi", resided with the Don Waltman family.

Adrian Barbari, from Argentina, became a Louisianian at the semester, residing with the Tom Wallace family for his half-year visit.

They both touched the lives of many people while they were here and will be long remembered in Louisiana and at LHS.

Head for the Mountains — THE TOP SENIORS

All the Seniors of 1980 were tops, but these particular students were recognized as being especially outstanding.

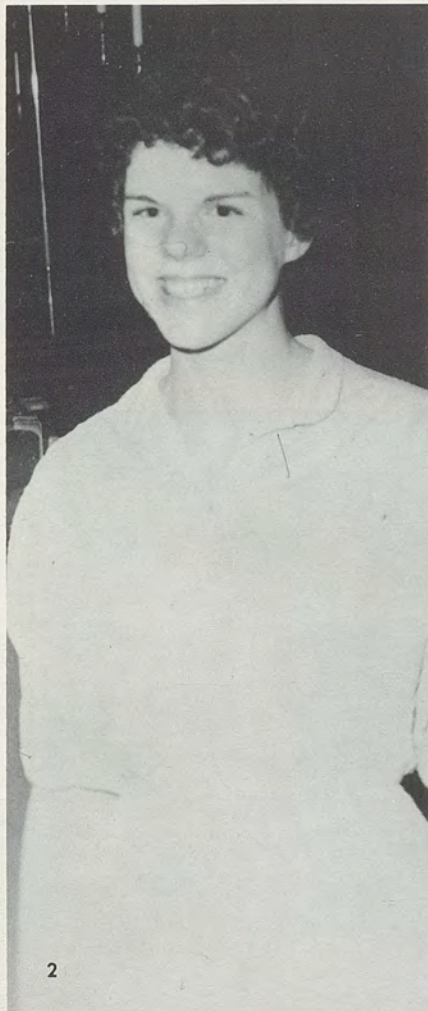

1 — Moira Horton, salutatorian and recipient of Bausch-Lomb Science Award. 2 — Robin Elliott, DAR Good Citizen. 3 — Virginia Garth, National Merit Scholarship Finalist. 4 — Karla Neumann, Rotary Scholarship Winner. 5 — Clay Powell, recipient of achievement pin from Mathematics Association.

The Impossible Dream!

As every class leaves LHS they want to be remembered for their lasting contribution to the school. The 1980 class was no exception. They left their idea of a "Good Contribution" on Sunday, May 18, following the Bacculaureate Services.

As the 1979-1980 school year and this Alamo come to a close, the students keep fond memories of happenings, activities, and each other — very important people, places, performances, and programs.

Even while remembering, the students look toward the future.

To a time when the President will be referred to as "she,"

when there will be vacations to the moon, and when important business will be carried out in buildings under the sea.

A realistic look shows that problems will accompany these new inventions and adventures; problems that must be solved by today's teenagers.

The VIPs of LHS today, will be the VIPs of the world tomorrow!
